THIS KOREANLIFE

01 Jan.

Sarah, Public School Teacher

02 Feb.

Coffee Shop in Spring

03 Mar.

Cherry Blossoms at Night

04 Apr.

Spring flowers in Iksan

05 May

Worship Perfomance, Sunday

06 Jun.

Sarah's Summer Camp

07 Jul.

Summer Church Retreat

08 Aug.

Putting Lights in Baby's Room

09 Sep.

On the farm, one of the family

10 Oct.

Scavenger Hunt at the Zoo

11 Nov.

Naejang Mountain in Fall

12 Dec.

2010 Christmas Snow

2010: Growth

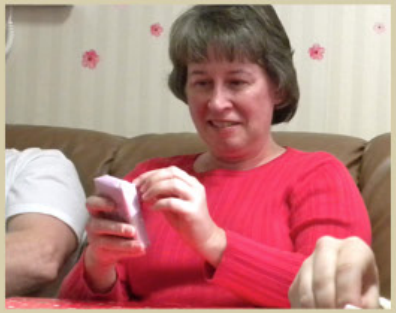
Last Christmas, Sarah asked for a baby. This year, she's getting one.

The year 2010 brought many changes to our lives, and we saw a lot of growth (most obviously her belly). In the first year of our marriage, Sarah became a public school teacher, and I became a university professor. We moved into a bigger apartment, bought a car, a new computer, and a digital piano (Christmas present, thanks!). I started grad school for Media Design, and we became parents, which has brought a whole slew of new challenges and responsibilities.

Our debates about church attendance and house cleaning have gradually morphed into discussions about life insurance, finances, our children's education and lives, and our own unforeseeable future.

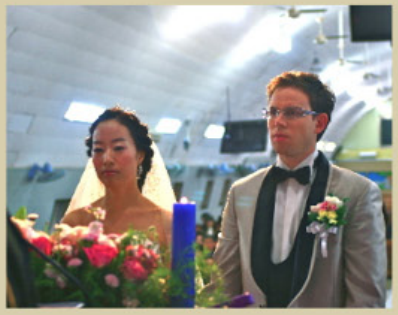
And through it all, we have probably done the most growing ourselves. And learning how to support each other through every situation has been the most enjoyable.

Please enjoy this simple picture book that details our first year of marriage. And thank you for supporting us as much as you do.



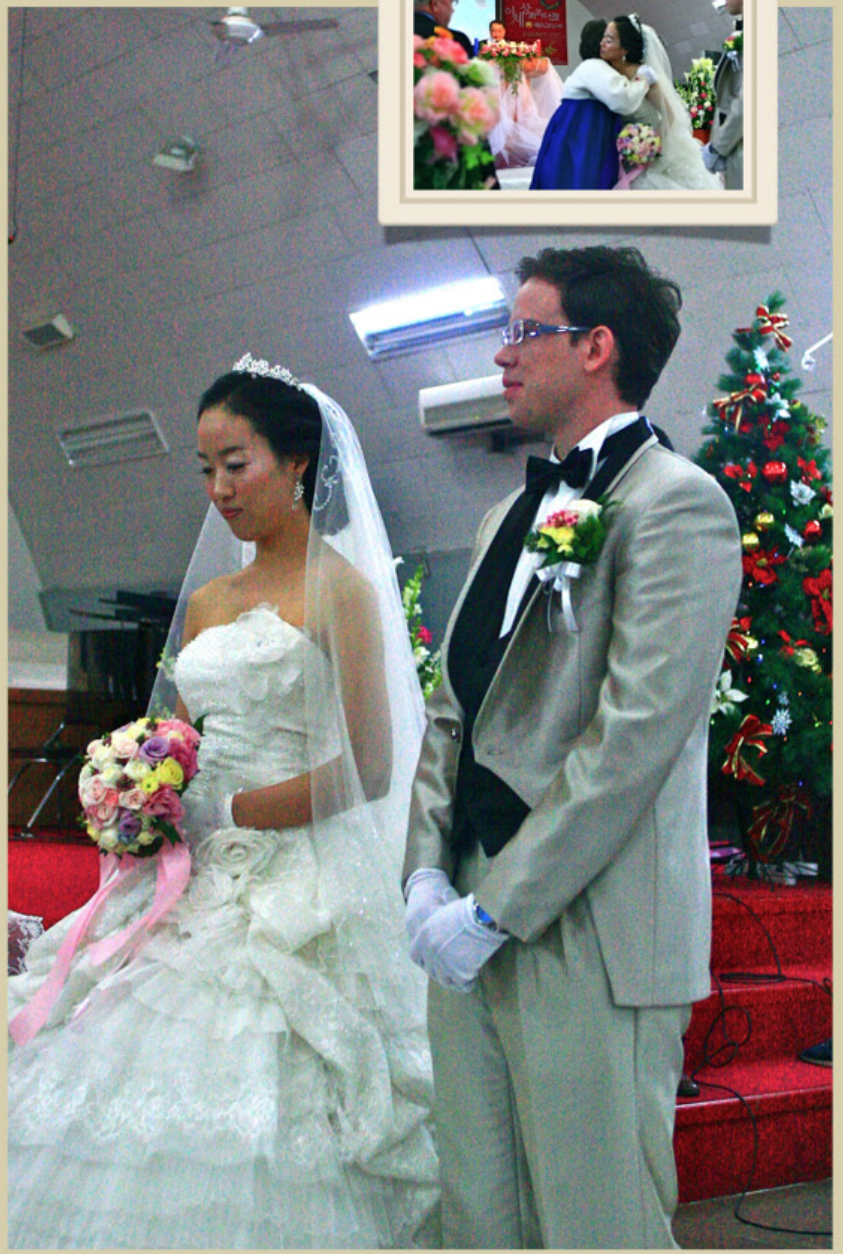
December 2009: Our Early Christmas

Meeting Family and Friends



이세

전주안디옥교회



이세상
최고의 선물
예수그리스도
PERFECT GIFT
Glory to God in the highest
Aaron

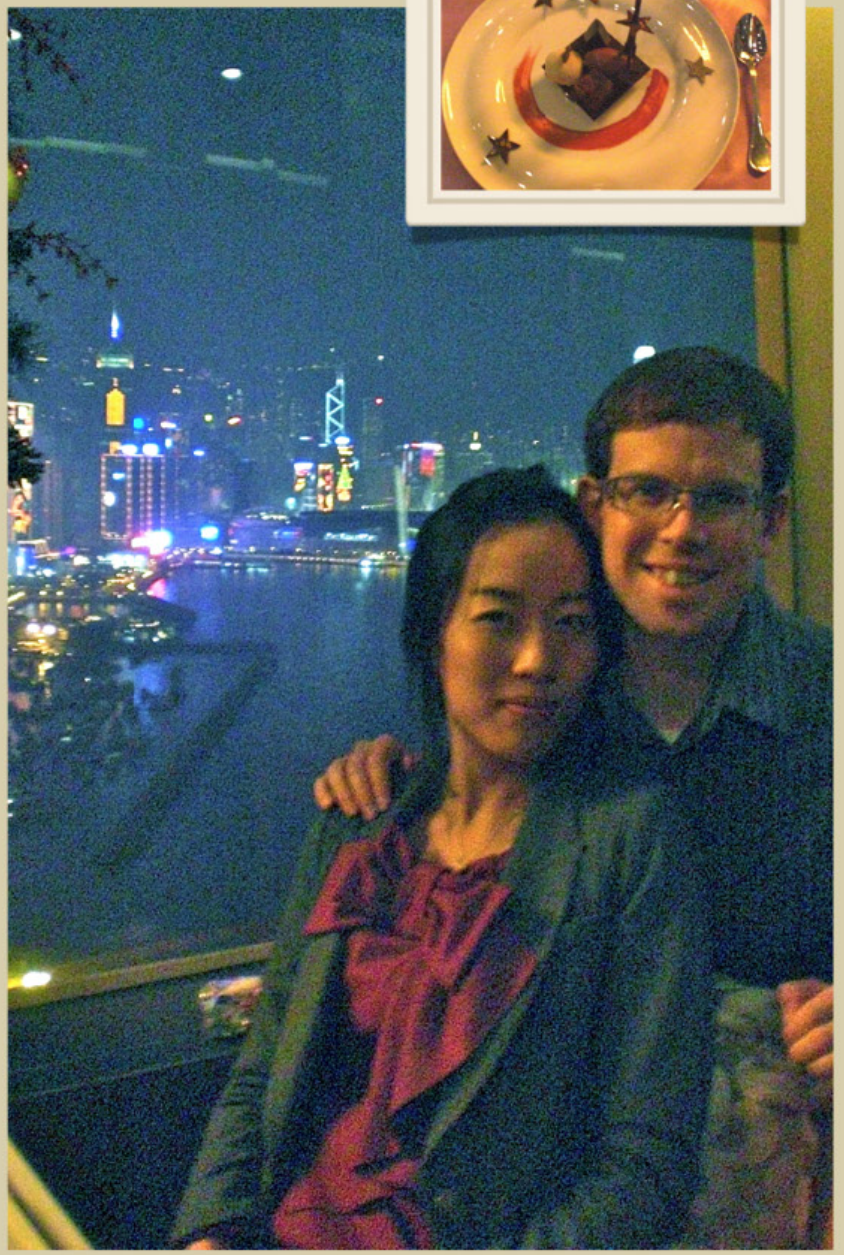
After Party: Korean Style

A Picture With Our Closest Friends

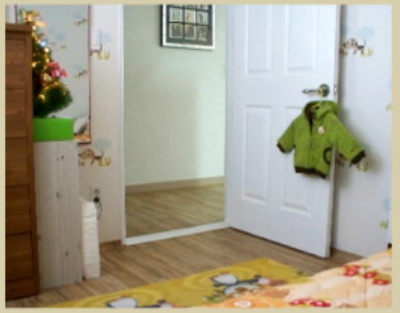
After Party: Western Style

Honeymoon Part One: Welcome To Seoul

HONGKONG
2008
正官庄



Sarah's Brother helped with every step of our house remodeling.

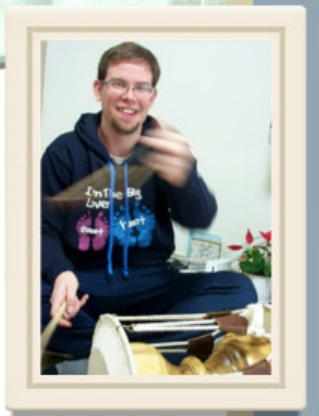


Exrything turned out beautifully.

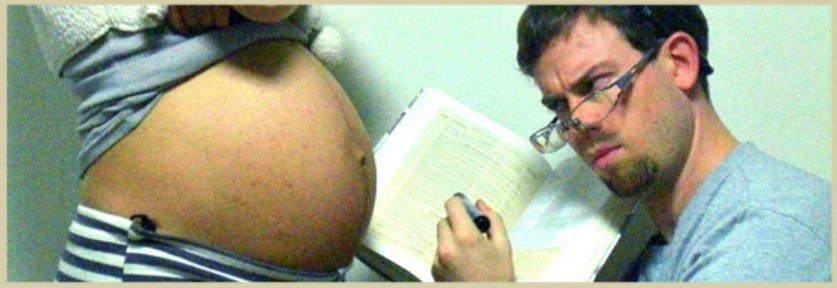
Summer Vacation!

First Road Trip: Naejang Mountain & Fall Leaves

Thanksgiving & Kimchi Making (& Father-in-law's 70th Birthday)



First Family Christmas with Baby (and Sister)



Our Big 2010 Christmas (New Year) Present

Bonus Page: Studio Shots

Isaac's First Picture - Due Date: 1.9.11

Made on a Mac